

Group Decision Tip

E-mailed every two weeks to help groups make good decisions

Recreation

In principle, group decisions are creations and often benefit from recreation. When the group gets stuck it helps to take a break, call a recess, change perspective, and then come at it again. Engage in recreation.

Fun is often underrated in group decision making. Who says you can't have fun while making good group decisions? I say that having fun helps make better decisions.

Practical Tip: Work hard together, play hard together. Get to know each other off topic and off site. Do fun, physical activities. Even on topic and on site, build in breaks and games to shake up the focus and encourage creativity.

When your creation seems stalled, try recreation.

Group Decision Tips are written by Craig Freshley and distributed by e-mail to subscribers at no charge about every two weeks.
